FROM THE INTERNATIONAL STUDENT OUTREACH PROGRAM

At the employer conference on September 14, the message was clear that employers and sponsors need to work together NOW to secure housing for the students they hope to hire in 2017. If you want J1 students next year, you and your sponsor need to start working to arrange a seasonal rental. According to Coldwell Banker, inventory is not the problem – timing is. By the time the students start looking in the spring, the seasonal rentals are gone, or have been converted to weekly rentals. If you only have a few students, work with another employer so you can get a place for your students together. Did you know that this summer, more than 50 students arrived with no place to live? Did you know that during the summer, 48 students needed to be moved due to overcrowding and deplorable conditions? If you have questions, contact Marianne Kauffman – mc.kauffman100@gmail.com.
